

Week 1 – Art and DT for The Day the Crayons Quit.

Option 1:

Create a speech bubble picture for your own pencil case.

Option 2:

Create finger puppets of your stationary items and present you letters as a role play for your family.

Making a Paper Finger Puppet

To make a paper finger puppet, you will need paper, a pencil, scissors, ruler, blue tack/glue and colouring materials.

1. Draw your character on a piece of paper.

Draw you stationary item or yourself if you are convincing them to return. The character should be at least as long as your finger and twice as wide. Please also leave enough space on both the left and right hand side of your character (3 cm).

2. Colour in your character and add in any details.

This is the fun part, colour in your character and add in any finishing details. You can use any colouring materials you like.

3. Turn your character into a finger puppet.

To make your character into a finger puppet you'll need to add wings at the bottom, so it can fit around your finger. Make sure your wings are long enough to fit nicely around your finger. Make the wings about 3 cm wide and 1 cm tall to secure nicely onto your finger.

4. Cut around the paper finger puppet.

Once the finger puppet is cut out, you can try it out by wrapping it around your finger. Once it fits perfectly, you can secure it in place with some glue or blue tack or tape.

5. Continue making more paper finger puppets.

You don't need to stop at one, you can make a whole group of characters who want to strike and people to persuade them to return and create a drama for them. How persuasive will you be?
