

What is being studied?

Where does this lead?

What is the rock made from?

Who is he?

The sound started on Saturday. It was swimming lessons at midday. Shortly after we returned, we heard it for the first time. To be honest, it wasn't really 'extraordinary' in any way, apart from the fact it was coming from our shed and that the shed was glowing green.

- Prompts
1. Use passive voice.
  2. Use a repetition of a word or phrase.
  3. Open with a modal verb.
  4. Use a semi-colon.
  5. Describe the rock in detail.
  6. Use at least one rhetorical question.

Sci-fi Narrative Inspiration Station

gravity	astronomical	craft	interstellar	intelligence
universe	Martian	spaceship	laboratory	black hole
extra-terrestrial	atmosphere	capsule	meteorite	celestial
unidentified	invasion	module	satellite	solar
intergalactic	galaxy	Mother Ship	atmosphere	conspiracy

DADWAVERS Openers

Description- A visible entrance hatch opened onto the field, and from where they stood they could make out figures sat inside the domed top of the craft.

Action- They were slowly being dragged in; it was some kind of portal!

Dialogue- 'I'm pretty sure that isn't John's dad!' whispered Jake, aggressively pointing at the strange, glowing figure stood in the doorway of the garage.

Where- Beyond the asteroid belt, in a far-off corner of the galaxy, their home planet had been caught up in a violent interstellar battle.

Adverb- Peculiarly, the specimen they had obtained was getting bigger.

Verb- Nodding slowly, and with great sadness etched across his face, he began to explain how they'd used the last escape pod and had set the co-ordinates for as far away as the fuel would take them.

Estimation of time- Within seconds, the hatch was open and the strangest figure appeared in the opening.

Rhetorical Question- What was the strangely glowing rock?

Simile/Metaphor – They neared the capsule and proceeded to prod it, like children waking a sleeping dog.